As stated above, applicant's amendments to the claims will not be entered because the amendment requires further consideration and/or search. Applicant's arguments are based on the newly amended claims which are moot because these claims are not going to be entered. Applicant's argues that the amended claims recite in part, obtaining a biological sample analysis from the pet after the pet has eaten a combination of the kibble and the additive based on the individual pet profile and supply or creating a second pre-manufactured kibble and a second additive that is based on the biological sample anlaysis and the indvidual pet profile. Applicant also argues that the biological sample analysis can provide information that enhances the indvidual pet profile information and can be used to modify and refine the customized pet food product by suggesting a different pre-manufactured kibble, adding specific additive ingredients, removing specific additive ingredients and/or changing the amount of any additive ingredient from the pet product formulation. The examiner does not dispute applicant's arguments however, as stated above, the claims as amended are not going to be entered and further that the method steps are repetetive and adjusting the pet food formulation based on the pet profile and biological sample analysis is obvious over Abene et al. and would be obvious to a pet owner discussing the pet with a Veterinarian after testing has been completed. It is well within the purview of the Veterenarian to discuss with a pet owner the disposition of the pet, the overall health of the pet, the type of food, vitamins, additives, pharmaceuticals taken by the pet and adjusting or selecting different pet foods during examination. It is maintained that the claims 1-17, 23 and 25-28 are rendered obvious by the teachings of Abene et al. and Claims 18-24 are
